SPALLUMCHEEN BY-LAWS.

BENNETT CREEK DRAINAGE BY-LAW, No. 26.

A By-Law to provide for the draining of parts of Township 35, in the Spallumcheen Municipality, being the south-west quarter, north-east quarter, and south-east quarter of Section 9, and the south-west quarter and north-west quarter of Section 10, and south half of Section 15, of the Bennett Creek Draining Scheme, and for borrowing, on the credit of the Municipality, the sum of three thousand five hundred and eighty-five dollars ($3,585) for completing the same.

[Provisionally adopted the 13th day of May, A.D. 1899.]

WHEREAS a majority in number and value of the owners, as shown by the last revised assessment roll of the property hereinafter set forth to be benefited by the drainage, have petitioned the Council of the said Municipality, praying for the drainage of the following lands in said Township 35, within the boundaries of the said Municipality of Spallumcheen, commencing at a point on boundary between J. Laur and Wood, Cargill & Co., in S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ Section 9; thence north-easterly to old creek; thence easterly and north-easterly, following the direction of the old creek, to a point joining the old creek in N.E. $\frac{1}{4}$ Section 15 :

And whereas thereupon the said Council procured an examination to be made by J. P. Burnyeat, C. E., being a person competent for such purposes, of the said locality proposed to be drained, and has also procured plans and estimates of the work to be made by the said J. P. Burnyeat, and an assessment to be made by him of the land to be benefited by such drainage, stating as nearly as he can the proportion of benefit which, in his opinion, will be derived in consequence of such drainage by every lot or portion of lot, the said assessment so made being the assessment hereinafter by this by-law enacted to be assessed and levied upon the lots and parts of lots hereinafter in that behalf specially set forth and described, and the report of the said J. P. Burnyeat in respect thereof, and of the said drainage, being as follows :—

“VERNON, B. C., April 7th, 1899.

“The Reeve and Councillors of Spallumcheen Municipality, Armstrong:

“SIRS,—Pursuant to your instructions of February 13th to proceed with the survey of Bennett Creek drain, I have the honour to enclose you herewith plan, profile, details of acreage to each owner, and minor details of construction and estimated cost, together with statement of time of men employed, board, and other accounts.

“Levels were run and measurements taken to establish limit of benefit area, and a height of 18 inches was adopted for such limit above the banks of the Bennett Creek. After the high water, and before commencement of work, the centre stakes will require to be marked with the cuts, and slope stakes set out, and a specification prepared for the guidance of the contractor.

“The ditching already done in the old channel between Stations 27 and 69 will be utilized by the new channel, and the line from Station 88 to the end was run along old bed of creek and near the foot-hills, thereby cutting the narrow meadow as little as possible.

“The ditch will be $2\frac{3}{4}$ miles long, and for the first 4,000 feet will require to be eight feet wide on bottom, and the balance 10 feet wide, and sloped one to one, having an average depth of about four feet.

“The scheme is wholly feasible and practicable, and the estimated cost is $3,585.

“I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

“Your obedient servant,

(Signed) “J. P. BURNYEAT, C. E.

“STEAM BOILER INSPECTION ACT, 1899.”

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
31st July, 1899.

HIS HONOUR the Lieutenant-Governor in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following Rules for the Inspection of Steam Boilers and Engines made under the authority of the “Steam Boiler Inspection Act, 1899.”

By Command.

C. A. SEMLIN,
Provincial Secretary.

RULES

FOR THE

INSPECTION OF STEAM BOILERS AND ENGINES.

MODE OF INSPECTION.

SEC. 1. The Inspector may, whenever he deems it necessary so to do, and he shall, at least once each year, subject every boiler in his district to a test by hydrostatic pressure, in the ratio of one hundred and fifty pounds to one hundred pounds per square inch allowable as a working pressure, using the water in such test at a temperature not exceeding sixty degrees Fahrenheit.

For the purpose of such test, the owner or his agent shall provide the necessary pipe and fittings to connect the Inspector's pump with the boiler, and shall also provide men to work the pump and assist the Inspector in his examination of such boiler.

SEC. 2. Before a boiler is subjected to a test by hydrostatic pressure, it shall be opened up for inspection, the man-hole and mud-plate doors removed, the outside and the inside of the boiler cleaned, the furnace grates removed, and all flues and tubes swept clean. The owners or their agents shall see that the foregoing requirements are complied with before applying for inspection.

SEC. 3. In any case in which a test is not satisfactory, the defects shall be made good and the boiler re-tested before a certificate is granted.

SEC. 4. The Inspector shall fix the working pressure of boilers by a series of calculations of the strength of the various parts, and according to the workmanship and material of which they are composed.

SEC. 5. In order to satisfy himself as to the strength and internal condition of a boiler, the Inspector may, should he deem it necessary, order holes to be cut in it, and may also demand that such information, by drawings and specifications of the several parts, be furnished him of the construction as will enable him to determine, by calculation and examination, their strength.

SEC. 6. In the event of satisfactory information not being obtainable, the Inspector shall use the factor of safety of 5, with such additions as his judgment may dictate.

SEC. 7. When the outside of a boiler cannot be otherwise perfectly inspected on account of brick-work or other covering, such covering shall be removed once at least in every four years.

SEC. 8. In subjecting boilers made of iron plates to the hydrostatic test aforesaid, the Inspector shall assume one hundred pounds to the square inch as the maximum pressure allowable as a working pressure for a new boiler 42 inches in diameter, made of the best refined iron, at least one-quarter of an inch thick, in the best manner and of the quality herein required, and shall rate the working pressure of all iron boilers, whether of greater or less diameter, according to their strength compared with this standard.

In subjecting boilers made of steel to the hydrostatic test aforesaid, the Inspector shall assume one hundred and twenty-five pounds as the maximum pressure allowable as a working pressure for a new boiler 42 inches in diameter, made in the best manner of the best quality of steel plate, at least one-quarter of an inch thick, with all the rivet-holes drilled in place, the plates being taken apart and the burrs removed, the longitudinal seams in the shell being fitted with double butt steel straps cut from the plate, and each at least five-eighths or over the thickness of the plates they cover, and all seams being at least double-rivetted, and having seventy per cent of the strength of the solid plate, and all flat surfaces stayed in the best manner and all the seams double-rivetted; and he shall rate the working pressure of all steel boilers so made, whether of greater or less diameter, according to their strength compared with this standard.

SEC. 9. If the Inspector is of the opinion that any boiler, whether made of iron or steel plates, by reason of its construction or material, will not safely allow so high a working pressure as that hereinbefore specified for each such description of boiler respectively, he may, for reasons to be stated specifically in his certificate, fix the working pressure of such boiler at less than two-thirds of the test pressure.

SEC. 10. (a.) The external working pressure on plane circular iron furnaces subjected to such pressure, when the longitudinal joints are welded or made with butt strap, shall be determined by the following formula:—

(b.) The product of 99,000 multiplied by the square of the thickness of the plate in inches, divided by the length of the flue or furnace in feet, plus 1, multiplied by the diameter in inches, shall be the allowable working pressure in pounds per square inch, provided it does not exceed that found by the following formula:—

(c.) The product of 10,000 multiplied by the thickness of the plate in inches, divided by the diameter of the furnace or flue in inches.

(d.) The length of the furnace to be used in the first formula being the distance between the rings, if the furnace is made in rings; and that of the two formulas which gives the lowest pressure being the one the Inspector shall use.

(e.) The pressure allowable on rivetted flues in return-flue boilers, flues being from ten to twenty inches in diameter, will be found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{C \times T}{R} = P$$

C = 40 A constant.

T = The thickness of the plate in hundredths of an inch.

R = The radius of the flue in inches.

P = The working pressure.

SEC. 11. The pressure allowable on flat surfaces shall not exceed six thousand pounds per square inch net sectional area of the stays supporting it. The pressure to be allowed on plates forming flat surfaces will be found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{C \times (T + 1)^2}{S} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

T = Thickness of plate in sixteenths of an inch.

S = Surface supported in square inches; greatest pitch of stays to be taken.

C = Constant according to the following circumstances:—

C = 125 for plates fitted with screw stays rivetted heads.

C = 165 " " nut outside.

C = 200 " " double nutted.

SEC. 12. (a.) When cylindrical boilers or the cylindrical parts of boilers composed of iron plates, made of the best material, with all rivet-holes drilled in place, the plates being taken apart and the burrs removed, the longitudinal seams being fitted with double butt straps, each of at least five-eighths the thickness of the plates they cover, and all seams at least double rivetted with rivets having an allowance of not more than seventy-five per cent. over the single shear, and provided that the boilers have been open for inspection during the whole period of construction, then 4 may be used as the factor of safety.

The tensile strength of the material is to be taken as equal to 48,000 pounds per square inch with the grain, and 42,000 pounds across the grain.

When the above conditions are not complied with, the addition, in the following scale, must be added to the factor of safety according to the circumstances in each case:—

A. .5 for lap joints, holes punched before bending.

B. .4 for lap joints, holes drilled before bending.

C. .4 for double butt strap joints, holes punched before bending.

D. .3 for double butt strap joints, holes drilled before bending.

E. .4 when material is in any way doubtful.

F. 1.0 if not open for inspection during construction.

G. 1.0 when any description of joint in the longitudinal seams is single riveted.

(b.) The strength of the joints are found as follows:—

$$\frac{(\text{Pitch} - \text{diameter of rivet hole}) \times 100}{\text{Pitch}} = \% \text{ strength of joint as compared with solid plate.}$$

$$\frac{(\text{Area of rivet} \times \text{No. rows of rivets}) \times 100}{\text{Pitch} \times \text{thickness of plate}} = \% \text{ strength of rivets as compared with solid plate.}$$

(c.) Sub-sec. (a), sec. 12, shall not apply to the end or circumferential seams, if such seams are sufficiently stayed by through bolts; nor to seams between the round and square part of the shell, in cylindrical boilers with square furnaces.

(d.) Then take iron as equal in tensile strength to 48,000 pounds per square inch, and use the smallest of the two percentages as the strength of the joint, and adopt the factor of safety as found from the preceding scale:—

$$\frac{(48,000 \times \% \text{ of strength of joint}) \times \text{twice the thickness of plate in inches}}{\text{Inside diameter of boiler in inches} \times \text{factor of safety}}$$

$$= \text{Pressure to be allowed per square inch on safety valve.}$$

(e.) For steel plates of the best quality, the tensile strength may be taken as equal to 60,000 pounds per square inch, using the same factor of safety.

SEC. 13. The areas of diagonal stays are found in the following way:—

Find the area of a direct stay needed to support the surface; multiply this area by the length of the diagonal stay and divide the product by the length of a line drawn at right angles to the surface supported to the end of the diagonal stay; the quotient will be the area of the diagonal stay required.

SEC. 14. Screw stays are not to be used when supporting flat surfaces at any angle but a right angle to the surface supported, their diameter to be measured inside the thread. Welded stays will not be allowed.

SEC. 15. (a.) No boiler or steam chamber is to be so constructed, fitted or arranged as that the escape of steam from it through the safety valve can be wholly or partially intercepted by the action of any other valve.

(b.) A stop valve must always be fitted between the boiler and the steam pipe, and when two or more boilers are connected with a steam receiver between each boiler and the receiver.

(c.) The main steam pipes and boiler connections must be provided with arrangements to allow for expansion.

SEC. 16. Each boiler must be fitted with glass water gauges, at least two test cocks, steam gauge, safety-valve, blow-off cock and connection, as complete as if there were only one boiler.

SEC. 17. (a.) On all boilers shall be placed a stop-cock or valve between the feed check valve and the boiler.

(b.) The fusible plug is to be inserted in all boilers at a point to be determined by the Inspector.

SEC. 18. (a.) The Inspector, when inspecting, visiting or examining boilers, shall satisfy himself that the safety-valves attached thereto are of suitable dimensions, sufficient in number, well managed and in good working order, and only loaded so as to open at or below the certified working pressure.

(b.) Every safety-valve attached to a boiler shall have a lift equal to at least one-fourth its diameter; the openings to and from the valves shall each have an area not less than the valve; if the lever of a lever safety valve is not bushed with brass the pin shall be of brass—iron and iron working together shall not be allowed; every safety valve shall be fitted with lifting gear, so that it can be worked by hand from the floor of the fire-room.

(c.) Safety-valves shall not be passed of a diameter less than two inches, except in the case of small boilers, where the area of grate surface is less than fifteen square feet, when safety-valves of less diameter may be used, but in no case shall their diameter be less than one inch, and provided they are of approved construction; the proportion of area of safety valves to be complied with shall be as given by the table of safety-valve areas.

(d.) The grate area shall be ascertained by measuring the length of the grates from the inner edge of the dead plate to the front of the bridge, and the width from side to side of the furnace on top of the bars at the middle of their length.

(e.) The safety-valves shall be tested for efficiency, under full steam and full fires, for at least fifteen minutes, with the feed water shut off and the stop-valve closed; if the accumulated pressure exceeds ten per cent. of the loaded pressure, he shall not issue a certificate until the efficiency of safety-valves have been brought within the above limit.

SEC. 19. If lever safety-valves are used, the distance between the centre of the valve and the fulcrum shall not be less than one-half the diameter of the valve; the length of the lever shall not exceed the distance of the fulcrum multiplied by ten; the valve seats shall be secured in such a way that they cannot lift with the valve.

In all cases the weight must be adjusted on the lever to the pressure allowed in each case by a correct steam-gauge attached to the boiler; the weight must then be securely fastened in its position and the lever marked.

SEC. 20. When it is known or comes to the knowledge of the Inspector that any steam boiler is or has been carrying an excess of steam beyond that which is allowed by the certificate of inspection, he shall, in addition to reporting the fact to the Attorney-General for prosecution under sub-section (3), section 8, of the "Boiler Inspection Act, 1899"; and in addition shall require the owner or owners of such boiler to place thereon a lock-up safety-valve, that will prevent the carrying an excess of steam.

On the placing of a lock-up safety-valve upon any boiler, it shall be the duty of the engineer in charge of same to blow or cause the said valve to blow off steam, often enough to satisfy himself that the valve is in good working order, and it shall be his duty to report to the Inspector any failure of such valve to operate.

In case no such report is made, and a safety-valve is found to have been tampered with or out of order, the certificate of the engineer having such boiler in charge shall be revoked.

SEC. 21. Long and heavy boilers should be suspended from beams or girders; boilers over 40 feet long should have three or four sets of hanging rods; side brackets resting on brick-work may be used for short boilers; if used on long boilers, expansion rollers must be placed at one end.

The side walls should not be less than twenty inches, with two inches air space; the front and rear walls may be fourteen inches; the distance from the rear head of the boiler to the brick-work must not be less than twelve inches in the smallest boilers.

All flues shall be constructed with doors arranged so as to be easily accessible for inspection.

Flues touching the boiler above the water space will not be allowed.

SEC. 22. The Inspector shall examine the engines, taking the main dimensions and the speed; he shall also see that an efficient governor is in operation, provided with an automatic stop (if of the belt-driven type), so that steam shall be shut off from the engine if the belt breaks or is thrown off.

SEC. 23. The horse-power of boilers shall be calculated as follows:—By taking the square feet of heating surface in the shell heads and tubes and divide by fifteen.

FEES OR DUES.

SEC. 24. The following fees or dues shall be paid by the owner of every steam boiler in the Province of British Columbia, under the provisions of the "Steam Boiler Inspection Act, 1899":—

The fees or dues to be paid yearly by the owners of steam boilers shall be twenty cents per horse-power, with a minimum of $5.00 for each boiler under 25 horse-power.

The amount of such fees or dues shall in each case be paid to and received by the Inspector of Steam Boilers, who shall, at such time and in such manner as the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works shall from time to time direct, account for and pay over the same to the Minister of Finance, to form part of the Consolidated Revenue fund of the Province.

The Inspector shall not make or deliver a certificate respecting any steam boiler under this Act unless the fees or dues have been paid, as hereinbefore set forth.

SEC. 25. In any case in which a steam boiler requiring inspection is not ready for such inspection when the Inspector is in the vicinity of such boiler, and has made arrangements with the owner or his agent to have such boiler ready, or from any other cause the Inspector has to return to complete the inspection, the expenses incurred by the Inspector in so doing, if such expenses were incurred through the fault or default of the owner or his agent, shall be paid by the owner.

SEC. 26. On commencement of the construction of every boiler built in British Columbia under the provisions of this Act, the maker of such boiler shall notify the Inspector that it is open for his inspection, and at the same time supply the Inspector with a copy of the drawings of such boiler, showing the method of riveting, staying, and bracing, together with such other information as will enable him to calculate the safe working pressure.

SEC. 27. The maker of every boiler to be used in British Columbia under the provisions of this Act, but built elsewhere, shall supply the Inspector with such drawings and other information as are required by sec. 26 of these rules and regulations.

PART 2.

DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF ENGINEERS.

SEC. 28. (a.) Engineers are required in all cases, upon stopping the engine, to open the safety valve, so as to keep the steam in the boiler below the limit allowed by the Inspector's certificate; to close the dampers, and when from accident the water in the boiler has fallen below the point of safety, to put out the fires at once.

(b.) Engineers are required to report to the owner, and also to the Inspector, any defects of or injury to the boilers or machinery, by which the safety of the same may be endangered.

They shall also report to the Inspector any accident happening to the boilers or machinery; and in case of omission to make such report, the licence of the engineer so omitting shall be revoked.

(c.) The Chief Engineer of a steam plant will be held accountable to the Department for the proper care and management of the boilers and machinery under his charge.

(d.) Engineers, on first taking charge of steam plants, and at least once a year shall satisfy themselves, by examination, that all braces, stays, and bolts of the boiler are in good order, and that the safety valves are in thorough working order.

MANAGEMENT OF BOILERS.

SEC. 29. (a.) Getting up steam.—Warm the boiler gradually. By getting up steam too quickly the boiler will soon be destroyed.

(b.) Firing.—Fire regularly. Use the slice bar gently and as seldom as possible.

(c.) Feed water.—Let the feed be regular and constant.

(d.) Glass gauge and try cocks.—Keep the glass clean and free, and try the gauge cocks often.

(e.) Safety valves.—Lift each safety valve at least once each day, and always before getting up steam.

(f.) Low water.—Put out the fires by drawing them or throwing ashes on them. Never use water.

(g.) Blowing off the boiler.—Do not blow off by steam pressure; let the water run off if possible. See that the fires are all out and hot ashes removed.

(h.) Boiler purgers.—Never use any composition to keep down incrustation without the approval of the Inspector.

F. CARTER-COTTON,

Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works.
